Expedition to the Pole of Cold

- There are people with a spirit of adventure and taste for discovery who always dream of challenging the North Pole, the South Pole, Everest, etc. These people are true travelers but are there a lot of people who visit the Pole of Cold, the place with a record negative temperature? What does the place with such a cosmic temperature look like? How do people and animals survive? What happens with equipment and machinery? Why does the river still run if it is -54°C . It is worth seeing the place and being there to get all the answers. It is time to discover this natural phenomenon.

What is extreme cold? How is it possible to survive such cold? To understand this one should visit the Pole of Cold. It is something to do at least once in a life-time. The point of absolute cold of the Northern Hemisphere is situated in Oymyakon uluss, Yakutia. There, mid January temperature is $-50,0^{\circ}\text{C}$. Sometime it drops down to -68°C . The lowest negative temperature of -71.2°C was recorded there in 1926. -Short description of the last expedition

The Pole of Cold expedition

Tour duration: first one is 10 days/ 9 night, second one is 10 days, 10 nights. Operating time: November 25 to March 1. The group is 4 to 8 tourists. Note: Extremely hard conditions.

Type of a tour: adventure tourism. Tourists take two flights: Yakutsk - Tyepliy Kluch, Tomtor - Yakutsk. Automotive rout goes along a unique road built by GULAG prisoners during the Stalinist era. Tourists have an opportunity to see for themselves and be witness to that dramatic time. There are carved bridges, barracks, and other remaining constructions - concentration camps. Tourists can also find some fragments of Aircobra aircrafts, crashed while ferrying aircrafts during Wold War II. Guests also visit Vostochnaya meteorological station, Badran gold mine, and ethnographic Evenk complex "Bakaldyn".

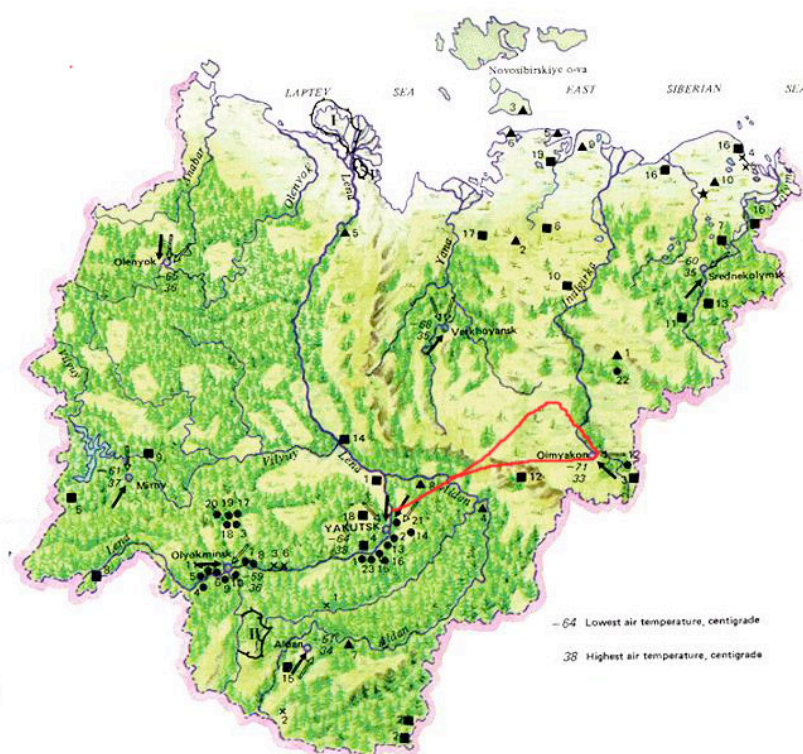

Magnificent landscapes, great mountains, fast rivers and waterfalls, and vast reindeer pastures, are all there for tourists to see during the journey.

Tomtor is a destination point. The record negative temperature was recorded in this town. The visiting program includes meteorological observations, sub-ice fishing, folklore concert, a meeting with the mayor, and the Ceremony of the Pole of Cold Certificate Award. In March Tomtor holds an annual The Pole of Cold tourist festival. Reindeer herdsman festival, Ice carving festival, sport competition, and night fireworks, are all the festival events. -
